6 essential managed IT services it makes sense to outsource

The whole is greater than the sum of its parts. Why integrated managed services make sense.
If you're a small business, accessing enterprise-caliber products and expertise improves productivity, cost-efficiency, and security.
Voice/UC

Unified communications replaces legacy phone systems with instant connectivity — contact availability, instant messaging, instant screen sharing, and audio/video conferencing. An MSP can set up new users, change profiles, update features, and keep software/hardware up to date.

Virtual Fax

Business-class cloud faxing includes both inbound and outbound faxing, fax to email, allows routing options, and smooths compliance issues. There's no hardware, no phone lines and no software to upgrade.

SD-WAN

SD-WAN provides seamless traffic routing so that latency-sensitive real-time services like voice/video are prioritized over bandwidth hungry apps. MSP network experts use advanced monitoring and reporting to identify issues, while your portal gives you insight into network performance down to the individual level.
4G LTE Failover

During a network interruption, a cost-effective 4G LTE backup link is automatically activated to maintain connectivity. The 4G circuit is powered by SD-WAN, so you can control what internet traffic has priority. When the primary circuit recovers, the 4G link returns to stand-by mode.

Network Security

Standalone security is no longer effective. A Unified Threat Management (UTM) appliance consolidates network security, including firewalls, anti-virus and anti-spyware, intrusion detection, and web filtering. Coupled with the expert monitoring and response of an MSP, you'll be protected against virtually any threat.

Workstation Mgmt

Viruses, malware, and other bugs can interrupt workflow. Managing and troubleshooting endpoints requires the right skills, a dedicated focus, and an efficient response. With an MSP, you get timely security patches, inventory and asset management, plus activity reports without overburdening staff.
